MOBILITY
FOUNDATION

The Open Mobility Foundation is a trusted nonprofit organization that brings together cities, mobility technology companies, and the public to help develop open-source standards that help manage public space for the public good.

We are governed by public agency leaders from around that world who are united in finding digital solutions to transportation challenges. Joined by experts, advocates, and other stakeholders, the Foundation's leaders work together — incorporating viewpoints and expertise from key groups and communities — to develop open source urban mobility tools.

MAKE AN IMPACT WITH US

Individual membership in the Open Mobility Foundation creates an opportunity for a consulting professional in the mobility industry to meaningfully contribute to the development of digital infrastructure tools, like the Mobility Data Specification (MDS) and the Curb Data Specification (CDS), while gaining an inside track, building relationships, and demonstrating expertise, ultimately shaping the future of mobility.

GAIN AN INSIDE TRACK

Actively participating in our meetings and events gives members an inside track to the conversations that public agencies are having across the country.

BUILD RELATIONSHIPS

From in-person events to educational webinars, the OMF offers a variety of moments for members to build relationships through the exchange of ideas and expertise.

DEMONSTRATE EXPERTISE

Opportunities to co-create with our community allow members demonstrate their digital infrastructure expertise and offer real solutions to today's complex challenges.

“ The OMF is a special partnership between municipalities and companies united in finding solutions to shared transportation challenges. ”
